Our lives are cluttered. We all feel the need for something clean, authentic and timeless. That's what Modern means for us. Bold lines, honoring the materials and letting them speak for themselves. In our new collections, we've found a way to combine daring and restraint that allows the creation of pieces that are as beautiful and functional today as they will be 100 years from now.

In a search for just the right vibe, AD Modern found its beginnings in an unconventional way. In fact, there was no piece of furniture to get "inspiration" from, no finish panel to replicate, and no antique to reproduce. The inspiration for AD Modern came more in the form of cool places than from existing design. We considered our favorite boutique hotels, trendy restaurants, and of course, our favorite outdoor spaces where nature is best on display.

To create the vibe, we started with clean lines to create the frame of the structure. This allows the character of the wood to stand out – juxtaposed with the deep colors of the finishes. Finally, each piece has been carefully accessorized using various metal, glass, textile, or stone elements.

FREE THE GRAIN

Nothing is more authentic and timeless than nature. To reveal the unaltered character of nature's most beautiful materials, AD Modern has been designed utilizing fuming wood and dying wood — two processes that have been all but lost to modern industrialization. These techniques create deep color tones without the use of conventional stains, sealers, and glazes that are applied onto and "cover" the wood.

MODERN

CLASSICS In a landscape cluttered by cheapened copies, beautiful designs with authentic materials have a way of standing out. That was the inspiration for the AD Modern Classics collection. Early in the design process it became apparent that the natural character found in American White Oak and Birdseye Maple should be the focal point.

Typically one must rely on paints to achieve certain colors on furniture. But AD Modern is different. When challenged to present a gray tone without covering the grain character our designers looked outside the normal industry finishing processes. The solution was to dye the wood similar to how quality, full aniline dyed leathers are colored. Each piece of wood is selected, individually separated, and gently bathed in dye. This process actually enhances the grain making the heavy flake character of the white oak and the “bird’s eye” character of the maple more pronounced. The effort is focused on selecting the best materials to begin with so that little – if anything – must be done to make them beautiful.

BIRDSEYE MAPLE

Sourced from North America, Birdseye maple is a rare and mysterious wood. The markings that make Birdseye maple are the small “eyes” formed within the tree as it grows. It is unknown what causes them so they can be very difficult to locate. Adding to the rarity of Birdseye maple, are the unique handling requirements to obtain it which require that the mature tree be harvested in the colder months before the sap rises. Our Birdseye maple is sustainably harvested in the northern United States and then dyed in Italy.

SOFT CLOSE: DRAWERS AND DOORS

Finely crafted goods tend to impress most in the seemingly minor details. AD Modern is no exception. We devoted special attention to how the doors of a cabinet feel as they open and how they gracefully close. Similarly it is felt in how the drawers of a dresser carefully close themselves shut with a simple nudge. Soft-close door hinges and drawer guides are another simple proof that with AD Modern, beauty is more than skin deep.

Finishes ordered at different times are not guaranteed to match. Woods have grain and color variations due to growth patterns of each tree.

The result is a beautiful and unique piece. Due to these variations, finishes on individual pieces are not guaranteed to match.

The finish shown here has been reproduced as accurately as photographic and printing technologies allow. For the truest representation, please contact your American Drew dealer.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The natural look of AD Modern comes from materials and techniques chosen for their unique characteristics.

Like a fingerprint, each piece features one-of-a-kind grain patterns and may contain a range of color tones.

Here are a few desirable characteristics that may be found in AD Modern:

Flakey Oak

Heavy flake (natural lighter tone grain) is one of the most desirable character markings that can be found in Oak. AD Modern seeks to include these characteristics. Due to the natural variations of this wood, heavy flake amounts will vary.

Color Tone Variations

Natural wood color tone variations represent the natural variations between individual boards. Additionally, color variations among sap wood and heart wood which are exposed through the veneer fuming process, may occur within individual boards.
